New Landing Gives Control At Balikpapan

Report Complete Control Of Area Is Now Held By Australian Troops

CELEBES AND JAVA AIRFIELDS BOMBED

By FRANK ROBERTSON
U.S. Staff Correspondent

MANILA, July 11.—Australian Seventh Division troops completed control of the Balikpapan area today with a new amphibious landing.

Elements of the veteran Aussie division went ashore at Dinabara, four miles north of Penadjan. Their way was prepared by a shattering bombardment by units of the U. S. Seventh Fleet, but the amphibious forces met no opposition.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced the new landing and declared Balikpapan that it completed our control of the Balikpapan shore area.

Though Japanese resistance was lacking at Dinabara, enemy forces were concentrated in considerable strength about one mile east of the recently captured Manggar airfield. Four miles east of Balikpapan, a second center of Jap resistance was reported around Mount Batocampar, some six miles inland from the original beachhead.

Smashing Ahead
Despite this opposition, the Seventh Division continued to push forward along the coastal highway east of Manggar and completed seizure of all the Pandansair oil refinery.

In northwestern Borneo, units of the famed Ninth Australian division carried out extensive patrol activities south of the captured Miri oilfields. However, they met no enemy troops at all.

No mention was made in MacArthur's communique of the drive along the Beaufort-Jessellon railway.

Ground operations in all sectors enjoyed the continuing support of MacArthur's aircraft and naval vessels, and search planes destroyed three Jap freighters off Kuching.

Japanese airfields in the Celebes and Java were blasted by Far Eastern air forces bombers, while search planes wrecked five enemy schooners and a motor boat north of Makassar and in the Flores.

MacArthur also announced that a light naval vessel put ashore a landing party at several points in the western Halmahera. The surprise sorties considerably harassed enemy outposts.

Heavy bombers and fighters continued the neutralization of Formosa.

Governing Body For Berlin Meets

Take Up New Problems After Agreement Upon Plan Of Feeding City

BERLIN, July 11.—(INS)—The allied governing body for Berlin, the kommandatur, held its first formal meeting today in the capital's former veterinary college.

The college, known as the Tierarzliche Hochschule, is situated just north of the center of the city on Luisenstrasse, in the Russian zone.

The initial formal meeting was agreed upon yesterday after allied officials arrived at an interim agreement on the feeding of the civil population of Berlin in respective zones occupied by the Americans, British and Russians.

The agreement on the feeding of the city was arrived at in a meeting between Lieut. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, deputy of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, for the United States; Lieut. Gen. Sir Ronald Weeks for Britain; and Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov for Russia.

President Plans To Tour Europe

Truman Will Make Visit To Some Of Europe's Liberated Countries

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(INS)—President Truman will follow up his first "Big Three" meeting in Potsdam with a triumphal tour of some of Europe's liberated nations, it was learned today in Washington.

His tentative itinerary includes Holland, Denmark, Norway and the United Kingdom. Other countries may be added later.

At present the chief executive is sunning himself on an American cruiser somewhere in the Atlantic. But, during his first real vacation since the death of President Roosevelt, he is reported to have shown a determination to remain an unassuming but alert chief of state.

He has visited all about the cruiser on which he is traveling. He has dined with the chief officers and, before the end of the voyage, will have messed with the enlisted men.

The sea voyage is but a prelude to important tasks before him. At Potsdam he will have to match wits with the trained diplomats of Britain and the aggressive diplomacy of the Soviet Union.

It will be his first meeting with Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin and his first intimate discussion with British Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

Chinese Troops Surging Ahead

Driving Up Routes From Liuchow Toward Air Center At Kweilin

CHUNGKING, July 11.—(INS)—Chinese forces surged up the rail and highway routes from recaptured Liuchow today toward the Kwangsi province air center at Kweilin.

Last reports of the Chinese high command said troops under the command of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had driven into Chengtu on the Kweilin-Liuchow rail line some 60 miles to the south of Kweilin.

Other Chungking forces fighting to the east of the Canton-Hankow railroad were reported to have advanced to within 12 miles of the former U. S. air base at Kanchow in Kiangsi province.

Other fighting on the far-flung Chinese front included stiff engagements against the Japanese landed on the southern coast of Fukien province from the Jap-held base at Amoy.

The U. S. 14th air force carried out a series of sweeps along the Hankow-Peiping railway, where they damaged three bridge, sank Japanese trucks at Donghai, and crippled enemy rail equipment in French Indo-China south of Hanoi.

Accused Of Causing Death Of Manicurist, Formerly Resident Of Pittsburgh

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 11.—(INS)—A former marine was charged today with the first degree strangle murder of Ruth Caputo, 32-year-old manicurist, formerly of Pittsburgh.

He was identified as Louis Dwight Brooks, 26, of Syracuse, and police said he had been dishonorably discharged from the marine corps six months ago.

Brooks was arrested still wearing his marine uniform in a downtown hotel room with a girl companion.

In addition to the murder charge, police said Brooks had attacked four Rochester women in the last four nights.

Brooks, police said, made a full statement.

Police charged he criminally attacked Miss Caputo and then strangled her. Miss Caputo's body was discovered at a lonely spot near her home on the Genesee river.

Boy Drowns In Beaver River

Anthony Panella, 10, Of Seventh Ward, Loses Life In River Near West Pittsburg

First fatality of the swimming season occurred about two o'clock Tuesday afternoon when 10 year old Anthony Panella, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Panella, 208 South Cedar street, drowned in the Beaver river. His body was recovered at 6:40 p. m. by a member of the Elkhawk City Rescue squad.

State and city police sought the body after two companions failed to save their friend. Failed County Coroner T. F. Nugent was summoned and the body brought to this city.

According to State Police Panella was one of a number of young people engaged in picking beans near the river, and after he had eaten his lunch went in swimming.

When he was half way across the stream he encountered a current too strong for him and he shouted for help. Joe Panella, 14, and Tony De Rosa, 15, both of South Jefferson street, went to his assistance.

Charter Backers Are Confident

Senate Leaders Ready For Showdown On Army Move For Reservations

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(INS)—Senate leaders backing ratification of the United Nations charter declared today they are ready to meet any reservations to the agreement now "when we have the votes."

Senate Majority Leader Aiken W. Barkley (D-Ky.) and Sen. Tom Connally (D-Tex.), chairman of the Foreign Relations committee, said that an immediate showdown on reservations might be better strategy than deferring such a test until enabling legislation comes before the Senate.

Ready For Action
"I have assumed there will be reservations offered," Barkley said. "Of course, we'll vote them down. We are ready to meet them but we're not encouraging them. We have the votes."

The Senate leader, who is a member of Connally's committee which today scheduled a panel of "opposition" witnesses to the charter, pointed out that reservations presented now could be offered later to the enabling act.

But rejection of reservations to the charter itself, he added, would have a "depressing effect" upon their reintroduction in subsequent legislation or agreements implementing the new world organization.

Connally similarly agreed that the better method of procedure might be to meet reservations at once. He said he would "just as soon" have it work that way.

America Can't Feed World Says New 'Food Boss'

Declares Fact Must Be Made Clear To Liberated European Nations

NEW YORK, July 11.—(INS)—Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson asserted today that "America can't feed the world."

He declared that this fact must be made crystal clear to liberated Europe to prevent "trouble and ill-will in the future."

In his first major speech since becoming the nation's food boss, Anderson outlined at length before the Advertising Federation of America the policies he intends to follow in dealing with the food problem.

Anderson promised the American people that they will be informed frequently on how much food there is in the country and where it is going.

Entitled To Know
"In case of a shortage they are entitled to know whether or not the shortage occurs from the failure of nature, a so-called act of God or from artificial mismanagement and starvation," the secretary stated.

Regarding shipment of American food to liberated Europe, Anderson was emphatic in stating that this nation "can't feed the world."

"We've got to make that clear and positive from the outset or we are inviting an awful lot of misunderstanding, trouble and ill-will," he added.

The United States, he said, must decide what portion of its food (Continued on Page Two)

Senator Asserts Organization Is Duplicating Efforts Of Army And Lend-Lease

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(INS)—Sen. Russell (D-Ga.) said today that the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration "should be abolished."

Russell, recently returned from a trip to Europe as a member of a congressional committee, declared that the UNRRA "is a waste of manpower and money" and "a cause of confusion."

"I couldn't find that they have done anything except get some milk for children and expectant mothers and look after a few displaced persons camps," Russell said. "They're not doing anything the army and lend-lease can't do," he said, adding:

"In paralleling the services the army already is carrying out, they cause confusion in dealing through local authorities."

Russell proposed that all overseas relief services be consolidated under army supervision.

Estimate Japan Has Lost Half Of Plane Production Capacity

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The aerial bombardment of Japan roared into the round-the-clock stage today, and best estimates by experts indicated 50 per cent of the enemy's plane production capacity has already been destroyed.

Meanwhile Admiral William F. Halsey's powerful Third Fleet and its carrier plane armadas rejoined the battle which virtually sealed the doom of Japan's dwindling air force in the skies.

Now Control Sea
Underlining this fact, Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal in a radio broadcast last night pointedly reminded the Japanese that Halsey is proving "we now control the sea right up to Japan."

Forrestal said that in achieving this feat the navy has sunk more than 250 major Japanese warships, hundreds of merchant vessels and destroyed "thousands" of planes.

Nearly 27 Billion For Seventh War Loan Is Report

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(INS)—The 14 billion dollar Seventh War Loan drive was disclosed today to have been oversubscribed with an all-time record total sale of 26 billion, 681 million dollars.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. reported that individual sales totaled eight billion, 681 million dollars and corporation sales 17 billion, 681 million dollars.

Total sales in the Sixth War Loan drive were 21 billion, 621 million dollars.

Morgenthau revealed that sales of popular E-bonds totaled three billion, 976 million dollars, or 24 million dollars below the four billion dollar goal.

The military targets listed as heavily damaged were Chuanghsia and ammunition factory in the Nanking arsenal district, 70 per cent wrecked; the Tachikawa army arsenal more than 25 per cent destroyed; and the Utsunomiya oil refinery at Yokokuchi 50 per cent damaged.

Mustangs Blast 19 Enemy Planes And 25 Vessels

SEVENTH FIGHTER COMMAND, Two Jima, July 11.—(INS)—Two Mustangs had a field day in their sixth strike in a week against the Japanese empire, an assault which today was revealed to have netted 19 enemy planes destroyed and 25 small ships sunk or damaged.

Roaring in at low-level Tuesday, the P-51s of the Seventh Fighter Command poured rocket and machine gun fire into the enemy shipping area—factory areas of Kobe on Honshu.

The American fighters were unopposed in the air, the only Jap plane encountered being an old-type dive-bomber which was shot down by Lieut. Robert Starr of Annapolis, Ala. The other planes were caught on the ground.

Japanese anti-aircraft fire was heavy and accurate though, and three Mustangs were lost in the assault.

Two of the U. S. pilots were rescued.

Mystery Sinking May Be Connected To Sub's Arrival

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 11.—(INS)—Possibility that there is a connection between the mysterious sinking of the Brazilian cruiser Bahia on July 4 and the arrival of a German submarine at Buenos Aires was seen today by the Rio de Janeiro newspaper "O Globo."

A dispatch from the newspaper's special correspondent at Recife, where Bahia survivors arrived today, said that it was known from authorized sources that on the morning the Bahia blew up and sank a Brazilian destroyer contacted a submarine close to the Bahia's position.

The Brazilian destroyer made depth charge attacks on the submarine contact position but without definite results, the dispatch said.

The story also pointed out that the submarine would have had plenty of time to cruise from the area of the Bahia's sinking to Buenos Aires.
At Recife today 28 of 33 original survivors of the Bahia were recovering from their ordeal of four days afloat in shark-infested waters.

U.S. Task Force Still On Prowl Around Japan

Tokyo Radio Reports Halsey's Carrier Force Still In Seas Off Homeland

CARRIER PLANES HIT 70-80 TARGETS

By JOHN R. HENRY
U.S. Staff Correspondent

GUAM, July 11.—America's mighty Task Force 38, which destroyed or damaged 14 Jap planes in the first few hours of a daring carrier strike at the Tokyo area, was said today by the enemy to be still prowling the waters off Japan.

The Tokyo radio, which had been predicting that the carrier raids would "be continued for several days," said that the task force had broken off its assault on the capital, but added that the American striking force "is still in the seas in the vicinity of our homeland."

According to the enemy radio, some 150 Thunderbolts and Mustangs from Okinawa took up the assault, hitting airfields on the southern Jap island of Kyushu for two hours this morning.

The carrier raid on Tuesday reportedly indicated that the 1,000 and more U. S. navy planes which roamed the skies over Tokyo were unchallenged masters of the Japanese skies.

Tuesday Morning Toll
Though Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced that task force 38 definitely destroyed 74 Jap planes and damaged 80 others during Tuesday's attack, the enemy radio said:

ESTIMATE JAPAN HAS LOST HALF OF PLANE PRODUCTION CAPACITY

available, but it was believed the enemy was turning out between 1,200 and 1,800 planes per month prior to the heavy attacks on factories by Superfortress bombers.

Japs Suffer Vital Losses
A 50 per cent reduction in production would mean, therefore, that Japan has lost at the source between 600 and 900 planes per month which were badly needed to replace her heavy losses.

The plight of Japan's remaining air power was indicated by the fact that from now on carrier and land-based plane attacks will gain momentum, thus preventing the enemy from recovering ground lost during the past few months.

Huge Bomb Loads
American air power now is closing in on Japan from four directions—land-based bombers and fighters from the Marianas, Iwo Jima and Okinawa, and carrier-based planes which can strike almost at will.

Superfortress bombers this month began to drop missiles on Japan at the rate of two millions tons per year and now are concentrating on smaller Japanese industrial centers and oil supplies.

Meanwhile fighters and smaller bombers from Iwo Jima and Okinawa and carrier planes are concentrating on keeping the remaining Jap air force grounded and on knocking it out of the skies.

These developments foreshadow the early disintegration of remaining Jap air power, the enemy's last long-range bulwark against invasion.

Say No One Reached Shore From German Submarine Before It Surrendered

BUENOS AIRES, July 11.—(INS)—The Argentine naval ministry issued a communique today declaring that the German U-boat which surrendered yesterday at Mar Del Plata brought no German politician or high ranking military man to Argentina.

The communique added that an investigation had revealed no person from the submarine had reached the Argentine coast before it surrendered at the resort city south of Buenos Aires.

The official report added that the U-boat was not responsible for the sinking of the Brazilian cruiser Bahia Monvile.

Salvatori Must Curb Appetite, Says His Wife

Pfc. Chester Salvatori, Army's Champion Eater, Will Find Things Different At Home

OXFORD, Mass., July 11.—(INS)—When Pfc. Chester J. Salvatori, the 120-pound eating champion of the Army, comes home he may find his determined little wife will succeed where Army doctors have failed.

Mrs. Salvatori, who is a bit worried over her husband's prodigious appetite, is certain she can curb it in her own way.

"I'll just get out our red points and show him he's got to get back to normal," she said today. "Then, I'll show him what things cost today and he'll realize he's not eating on Uncle Sam's money."

The young wife, who has a 10-month-old daughter, Loretta, said her husband always was ready for a date. She thinks he developed his abnormal appetite in Georgia by accepting a challenge to eat an extra large meal and then felt he had to keep it up.

Salvatori, according to the Army, tosses off eggs at the rate of 40 for breakfast and is not satisfied with anything less than 24 pork chops for dinner.

POTSDAM

When President Truman, Prime Minister Churchill and Generalissimo Stalin meet in Potsdam to further their plans for world peace, that German town will be playing a role unique in its history.

For Potsdam was the very cradle of Prussian militarism. It was Potsdam, one-time home of the German Kaisers, that Frederick William I promulgated the original regulations governing the discipline and drilling of the Prussian army, forerunner of the German military machines which plunged the western world into war in 1914 and 1939.

Originally a Slavonic fishing village first mentioned in 993 A. D., 16 miles southwest of Berlin, Potsdam remained unimportant until Frederick William I greatly enlarged the town, laying out the streets in monotonous regularity reflecting his stern military character.

The building of chief historical interest is the palace, built in the seventeenth century and containing numerous relics of Frederick William's son, Frederick the Great, that there are many other monuments of the past for Potsdam long has been noted for its architectural splendor.

Among them is the Friedenskirche whose name, in English, "church of peace," is a historical anomaly in view of past wars hatched in Potsdam.

Doll Show Winners Are On Exhibition

Results of all of the many doll shows which have been held at ten playgrounds, scattered throughout the city are now on exhibition in the window of a downtown store.

Last year's exhibit did not include as many doll ones as are now shown, and was lacking the cosmopolitan flavor given by the discreetly veiled Casablanca doll. Two animal dolls, a cowboy bunny and a Navy marine, added more variety to the show.

Two dolls, a red cross nurse, a peasant with a basket of fruit on her head, Indians, Ragdolls, Ann dolls, Swedish and French dolls, a skater, a Dutch doll and a paratrooper are just a few of those on exhibition.

Limiting Presidency Not A Partisan Matter

Introduction by Senator Morse of Oregon of a proposal to amend the Constitution to limit presidents to two terms each opens the way to action by the Nation on a question that has assumed profound importance.

House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin, on the preceding day, had forcibly presented the need of such a measure for the future preservation of our system of government. As Mr. Martin maintains, the suggested amendment is in no sense a reflection on the memory of Franklin D. Roosevelt, whose third and fourth term elections shattered precedent under the impetus of successive years of crisis and danger.

And although the present step is initiated by Republicans it is not in any sense a partisan matter, but one in which members of both parties can join earnestly. During the Roosevelt era there were many Democrats, sincere admirers of the late President, who nevertheless deprecated the extra term idea.

They were fully conscious of the dangers to the Republic of repeated re-elections of a president, but the grave events through which the Nation was passing overshadowed this in their minds. The peril in unlimited re-election cannot be dismissed. Sooner or later Mr. Roosevelt's extra terms are likely to be used as the pretext for keeping some future president in office, even for life.

Mr. Martin has suggested pensioning retired presidents and giving them seats as "Elder Statesmen," in either the House or Senate in order to retain their services in the government. These ideas are worthy of consideration, but the essential thing to be done is that contemplated by Senator Morse's resolution. It is to be hoped that it will be dealt with in Congress, and eventually by the country, on its merits. There is no question of party involved in it.

On Our Terms, Not Theirs

That snarling Jap liar, Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, who, as Japanese ambassador to Washington seconded Saburo Kuroki in take "peace" talks up to the very hour of the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, is sounding off about unconditional surrender.

Nomura is quoted by the Tokyo radio as declaring that "as long as the enemy asks for Japan's unconditional surrender, she (Japan) will have to shed blood proportionate to the time and intensity of each battle."

For a member of the upper ring of Jap criminals to discuss surrender in any respect is not without significance, suggests the Philadelphia Inquirer. The enemy, steadily being pounded to a pulp by America's air war, is toying with ideas of yet getting his kind of a peace.

But it is hardly fitting for the Japs to threaten us with alternatives. The truth is that the grimmest of alternatives confronts them, not us. It is unconditional surrender or the complete obliteration of Japanese cities, towns and villages until nothing but charred ruins is left. Certainly we can never again tolerate Japanese power masking behind toothy grins and lying assurances that shield evil designs to destroy us and our liberties.

The choice still remains to the Japanese to quit before it is too late, but on our terms, not theirs.

Feint And Thrust

Clearly Japan is in the position that confronted Germany when the Allies had massed men in North Africa, Italy and England. The Allies, who then were capable of striking from any one of several directions, can now keep Japan on guard throughout what is left of the Nipponese empire.

An American force is on the prowl in the Okhotsk Sea and has attacked Japan's half of Sakhalin Island, which is indispensable to Japan in oil and fish. Conceivably an amphibious expedition can make landings there and set up bases to the north of Japan.

American forces on Okinawa can plunge into the Japanese islands or into China. General MacArthur's armies in the Philippines similarly are in position to go in any of several directions—Formosa, Hong Kong, Shanghai or Tokyo. British and Australian forces in the East Indies can attack Java, Sumatra, Malaya, Indo-China or anywhere in that quarter.

Japan is confronted by the problem of keeping its armies dispersed in an effort to protect a long life-line. It is likely that the Allies, in their next plunges, will achieve rapid progress until the Japs discover the direction of the main thrust and concentrate their armies to meet it.

At the moment the Allies enjoy all the advantages of feint and deception in keeping the enemy off balance.

Making Air History

American military authorities never left any doubt of the purpose of the conquest of Okinawa. It was to establish a forward base for aerial attack upon Japan. And now American military authorities are beginning to release details of construction which remove any possible doubt about the size of the Okinawa operation now going on. Its scope is so tremendous as to almost defy imagination.

According to Col. George Mayo, an engineer of the U. S. Army Air Forces, Okinawa now is the scene of the greatest military engineering effort in world history. Thousands of men are working around the clock to complete the job in record time. When it is finished, Okinawa will be the greatest island air base ever seen. It will accommodate planes of every kind in profusion.

A small idea of the size of the project is provided by a few statistics. Okinawa will have more than 25 miles of paved runways. Counting the taxi-ways and service aprons, the island airfield will have a paved area equal to 400 miles of two-lane highway. And the smallest of these—the kind the Army calls a light-duty field—will be able to handle twice as much traffic as does La Guardia Field in New York.

"Soon," said Colonel Mayo, "we will have twice as many aviation engineers in the Pacific as ever served in the European and Mediterranean theaters combined."

Never before—anywhere—have so many men with so much equipment been working so hard toward the same goal as on Okinawa.

The date for reaching that goal is a military secret, but the speed of the engineers engaged on the project is reported as startling, even by American standards. The willingness of the Army to discuss the Okinawa job indicates the Japs haven't long to wait before feeling the full effect of the air power to be based there. If the weight of the air power matches the size and speed of the engineering feat, the full effect will surpass all known records of aerial destruction.

Land-lease supplies are being sent to the Russians in Siberia where they are facing but not fighting the Japs. Let's hope there is no black marketing across the border.

Postwar Air Lines

To Be Huge Business

WASHINGTON, July 11.—President Truman has shown the patience of job in waiting so long to announce the first international air routes.

The three routes, to be operated by three competing companies, as outlined by the Civil Aeronautics board, comply with national policy stated in an act of Congress. These competitive routes comply, too, with the great body of public opinion in this country, which is dead set against monopoly.

The reason the president waited so long was to give a small minority in the Senate—really a minority of two—every opportunity to voice the point of view in favor of a so-called community company. The minority resorted to every petty tactic, indeed to hold up the cab finding as long as possible.

Delay Did Not Help

The delay of many months did not help to advance our post-war air position. The Army Air Forces has done a superb job of building bases and airfields around the world during the course of this global conflict. Part of this we will write off as part of the cost of the war. But part of it will fit into the post-war air picture if we do not deliberately dribble it away in the course of our own family quarrel.

Senator Brewster of Maine and Senator McCarran of Nevada have openly and ardently embraced the cause of Pan-American Airways, which seeks a single company—the chosen instrument which would have government backing. All the domestic airlines, with one or two exceptions, want regulated competition because they want to get into the international trade.

Stakes Are Big

The stakes are big. Air travel is bound to expand at the war's end at an enormous rate. So will revenues from globe-grinding planes. That is why the lobbies have been working so intensely here at the center of authority.

But there is a national interest, too, which is bigger than any private interest. In the opinion of those who should know, the national interest is best served by competing companies. That way more routes will be flown and more passengers. The chances are better for lower fares. More activity in the air will turn much more money for the aircraft industry. It will mean that research and experimentation will be kept at a high level.

Of course, it is not the struggle here at home between competition and monopoly that is alone responsible for holding up our post-war air chart. Great Britain has been very reluctant about giving its landing rights on strategic British airports to a few American airlines.

That is true even where American materials and labor have gone to create great new airports.

The British position is not hard to understand. They point out that we have gained a tremendous advantage in this war. While with their limited plant capacity they concentrated entirely on building bombers, we with our huge plants built both bombers and transport planes in unbelievable numbers.

Thousands Of Planes

We have thousands of transport planes that can readily be converted to peacetime passenger and freight service. An estimated three-fourths of all air passenger traffic will originate in this country. We do have a running start in the race for peacetime air superiority.

Those who argue for the so-called community company insist that there will be plenty of competition with the companies of other nations. Usually, however, it doesn't work that way. Britain today has a single company with government backing—British Overseas Airways Corporation. The pressure would all be toward agreement between their company and ours to eliminate what would be called "unnecessary competition."

The forces pushing us into the new air age are so strong that nothing can really stop the drive. They cannot be channeled into monopoly. Neither can they be checked by ancient prerogatives of geography.

Each department of the government—war, navy, justice, state—is justified for competition. There will be enough business for all, and it's time to get on with it.

BICKERING BRIDGE

I had a friend just yesterday. But now he's my friend no more. When I draw near he looks away.

Our glad companionship is over. At bridge he begged me to play.

"A fourth," said he, "tonight we need."

"Food! Food!" in rage I heard him yell.

When I forgot his suit to lead.

And there was one not long ago.

On whom I thought I could depend.

The worst of me he'd come to know.

But still he seemed to be my friend.

He knew that harm him I would do.

That I would aid him when I could.

Now I'm despised! For I forgot.

The dummy's four of clubs was good.

I'm told too sensitive am I.

Too quickly hurt by fits of rage.

But on the years are slipping by.

And I am now past middle age.

So when the "fourth" for bridge they need.

To fill their table I refuse.

For blundering and foolish lead.

I've no more friends I care to lose.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 8:10. Sun rises tomorrow 6:01.

Most people don't care what happens to cogs that bark all of the time.

We have a Friday the 13th this week.

A good turn deserves applause.

The June bride was back from her honeymoon and was experiencing her first lesson in household shopping, and going up to the meat counter, she said: "I want something nice for breakfast—say two, something nice, you know."

"Some people like sausages," suggested the butcher accommodatingly as he pointed to luk sausage.

"Well, I like luk sausage," said the bride.

"Pointing" queried the grocer.

"Oh, yes," answered the bride brightly. "Yes—no, of course, half a pound. And I want some eggs for boiling, vegetables, and—"

"How would you like an eggplant?"

"On can you grow them at home?"

"I thought—yes, but I don't like them. I want a vegetable for my blue chin, see, Oh! Beets! A quart of beets. That's all. And can you send them to Miss Margaret Black, 17 Plum street?"

She fluttered out of the store but was back in a minute flushed and blushing.

"Oh," said the "I forgot something." I wanted to order a dozen backyard cakes to go with those sausages. And I made a mistake in the name and address. Send the cakes to Mrs. Phillip Masters, 411 Elm street instead of Miss Black at 17 Plum street."

JUST "SHORTS"

Leaving the ponderous deliberations of the San Francisco peace and freedom conference to drift for itself I turn to a vastly more significant emergency which has come up in this nation and that is "Shorts."

"Shorts" in this instance has to do with women's high-knee, or more bristles, once parties, worn in technical of tantalizing materials, preferably in outdoor places, to the exclusion of most other apparel and to the consternation of delight as the case may be, of the genus homo.

As may be seen at once, the problem of "shorts" calls for the frank and free discussion of details of unusual delicacy. If we are ever to get anywhere, it involves questions of liberty and freedom, whether one's anatomy is his or her own, to do with as one pleases, or whether they are to be rationed or put out on points. And it should be remembered that it is not so-called "shorts" but the fact of the matter with any, maybe hairy.

The evolution of female apparel and its inception in the Garden of Eden when a lone fig leaf was regarded as strictly de rigueur prior to the apple and serpent episode, which is credited with bringing about the Fall of Man. Then man just grunted. Now this while and that puts a new aspect on the case.

En route down the trails of the case we find our beloved women attired in various degrees of disableness ranging from tattoo marks, G-string, and rings in their dear little proboscides down to the days when they were almost entirely encased in robes and gowns, including face veils until they could scarcely distinguish where the woman left off and the clothes began.

In the days of our youth young men were well along in years before they were for sure whether a woman was equipped with a pair of legs, now called "cheese-cake," or whether she just waited about about the gentle breeze. No woman was ever known who was getting into V-Day but they made it stick faster than their own.

As long as women consider themselves to be their proper prerogatives of exercising their bewitching charms with an occasional apple or strawberry shortcake thrown in as a bonus inducement, the men wait for them on faith and hope with the advent of rivers, widows and taxi drivers, something has gone wrong. There is not the same civility or decency in the realm of the feminine game. They are more likely to get a nose in the air for their person, so they had better stick to their own business.

When women's ankles first began peeping out from beneath the folds of their demure skirts there was a great hubbub and furor. Modesty and decency were being betrayed. It was horrible. Something had to be done about it. Men's minds were being endangered and worried. No telling what might happen. Bacteriological experts came to the rescue. With a deft stroke they had been enjoying the rare privilege of grabbing into those flowing robes and trailing leashes into paradise would be forever blocked unless they could scale the slippery surface of shoes and stockings, with no place to lean or prop up or pause their still wits.

It's Grandpappy Jenkins who says he knows a fellow so war-mindful that he refuses to draft horses as "selective service steeds."

A man's mistake according to an Irishman, does not even get a prison sentence. That's 100 per cent right. For instance, Hitler's cockle dust was absolutely square.

DOES IT TAKE MONEY TO BE GENEROUS?

"How can you pass a young girl attract men when we are so limited financially that we must wear bargain-counter clothes? The wealthy girls who have ample clothes with which to dazzle boys have a greater opportunity than we low-salaried girls who have two strikes against us. Don't you agree?"

Answer: Not entirely! Every man likes a girl who dresses attractively but he is invariably scared off by the girl who garbs herself in numerous expensive ensembles. He is likely to decide that the upkeep of an extravagant wife would be too much of a hardship.

Women are inclined to exaggerate the importance of expensive clothes. Men are more impressed with lines and a woman's ability to wear clothes than they are with expensive materials and numerous costumes.

A well-grounded, attractive girl with a flare for style can make a better appearance than one with money to buy extravagantly but who lacks taste for proper selection. Then, too, there is that all-important element of opportunity to meet men. And that's where the working girl shines. She has a wider field from which to choose.

About One Person In 400 Has Chance To Get Steak In Public Eating Places

Being listed as a member of the "400" in New York at one time was considered the ne plus ultra of social achievement. There's another "400" today, but it is merely the designation of how many people it takes to get one person a steak in a restaurant.

"Public eating establishments, including hotels, are subject to such severe rationing allotments that only one person in 400 stands a chance of obtaining a serving of steak," said DuWayne Shaw, manager of The Castleton hotel today. Continuing he said, "some folks seem to think that all a person has to do is to enter a restaurant to get what cannot be obtained at home."

"The fact of the matter is that the public feeding industry has even less ration points per customer than the American housewife. This means that the person who eats in a public restaurant gets less of rationed food than those who eat at home."

Enormous Industry
The American housewife gets 644 of a red point per meal, in an average as against 576 of a red point for each customer that eats in a public establishment. This means, in our opinion, that meals served in all public feeding establishments are now at a point which it would be dangerous to go below.

The size of the public feeding industry, which includes hotels, can be seen from the fact that in December, 1942, the industry provided 2,867,025,000 meals during that single month. For the period of April to December, 1944, the monthly figure had increased to an average of 3,453,798,815 as a result of the war program. For the first three months

Gen. Eisenhower Places Wreath On Roosevelt's Grave

Quiet Private Ceremony Takes Place At Hyde Park Grave On Tuesday

HYDE PARK, N. Y., July 11.—(INS)—Gen. of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower laid a wreath of flowers on the grave of the late President Roosevelt Tuesday.

It was his personal tribute to his former commander-in-chief who died before the celebrated general returned home to enjoy nation-wide acclaim.

The ceremony was exceedingly simple. There were no speeches.

Eisenhower drove up in a car with Mrs. Eisenhower preceded by a six-car motorcade. He was greeted by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who wore a black and white summer printed dress, a black band in her hair and no hat.

Deposits Wreath

Together, they walked to the grave, where the general deposited the wreath of lilies, roses, carnations and blue asters, tied with a red, white and blue ribbon.

Then he and Mrs. Roosevelt stood for a moment with bowed heads. Afterward, he walked back to his car and drove away.

Interested spectators were four children: Elliott Roosevelt, Jr., 9; (Miss) Chandler Roosevelt, 11; David Roosevelt, 3, children of Elliott's first marriage and William Crawford, 5, son of Faye Emerson by her first marriage. He held Fala, the late president's Scottish terrier.

The public was not permitted to witness the ceremony.

FURTHER APPEAL

In all likelihood, the case of Jack B. Dworkin versus William McElwre, Jr., executor in the estate of the late Ella K. Thayer will be appealed to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania by Mr. Dworkin.

The case is that of a Cleveland attorney Jack B. Dworkin who brought suit against the estate of the late Mrs. Thayer to collect upon a note for over $23,000 for legal services said to have been rendered by him to the deceased in her lifetime. With the accrued interest the total amount at issue was about $32,000.

In the trial the plaintiff introduced testimony showing that the signature of Mrs. Thayer to the note had been witnessed. The defense produced a hand writing expert who testified it was not her signature. A verdict for the defendant was rendered, whereupon the plaintiff moved for a new trial on the grounds that certain testimony should have been stricken off.

Judge John G. Lamoree who tried the case ruled that the verdict was in accordance with the evidence and refused a new trial. The appeal to the Supreme Court when made will be for a reversal of the lower court's opinion and a new trial granted.

DIVORCES GRANTED

The following divorces have been granted by Judge John G. Lamoree: Gladys Florian Lutz against William E. Lutz, Volande Millione Frank Millione, Raymond James Stoughton against Eva Stoughton, Sara Daugel against Frederick M. Dangel.

CARUTHERS POTTER EVENING WEDDING

At 7:30 o'clock on Tuesday evening in the Second U. P. church at an impressive ceremony, Miss Catherine Elizabeth Caruthers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carpenter Caruthers, of Sheridan avenue, became the bride of S-Sgt. Richard R. Potter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jennings B. Potter, of Youngstown O.

Rev. J. Calvin Rose officiated with the double ring service before the altar banked with palms and ferns and lighted by tapers in candelabra on either side.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a white satin and marquisette gown fashioned with a full skirt and sweetheart neckline. She wore a fingertip length veil of tulle and carried white roses and stephanotis streamers. As her only jewelry she wore a strand of pearls.

Mrs. Arthur G. McClure, aunt of the bride, as maid of honor, wore a pink satin and marquisette gown and carried pink roses and blue delphinium.

Miss Joanne McCollum sang "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning" with Miss Betty Barnhart, of Aliquippa, cousin of the bride, as accompanist. Miss Barnhart also played nuptial selections preceding and during the ceremony.

Jennings B. Potter served his son as best man. Ushers were Cecil Potter, of this city, and Harold Dangerfield, of Youngstown.

After a congratulatory period at the church, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The couple left later for a few days' wedding trip.

Both the bride and groom graduated from New Castle high school with the class of '42. Mrs. Potter is employed in the office of the Pennsylvania Power Company. During his army service, S-Sgt. Potter served for 20 months in India as a radio operator with the army air force before returning to duty in this country. He is now stationed at Memphis, Tenn.

Declares Germany Remains Threat To World Peace

Will Need Close Watching For Years Is Opinion Of Senate Committee After Tour

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(INS)—The Senate War Mobilization subcommittee declared today that defeated Germany still remains a greater threat to world peace than she was after the first World War.

The group headed by Sen. Kilgore (D. Va.)—who accompanied other members of the War Investigating committee on a trip to war-torn Europe—asserted that Germany is trying to mislead the world into believing she is crushed in order to mobilize her resources for the next war.

The subcommittee issued a report urging that a constant watch be kept over Germany and its industry far into the postwar years.

"Germany today is better prepared to implement her plot for world conquest than she was at the end of World War I," the subcommittee report declared.

To safeguard world peace, the subcommittee recommended:

1. Exhaustive examination of records of the German government and industrial organizations, with expansion of present studies and reports to executive agencies and Congress.

2. Annual reports from the United States representatives on the Allied control council to Congress on progress of German disarmament and control.

The committee recommended quarterly reports on Germany for the first three to five years and annual reports thereafter.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

But a few minutes after his arrival the youngster five or ten may rush off to play. The term-age may even choose to go out with friends that very evening.

Deeply Hurt

Unless the father has thought through these matters, he may be deeply hurt. Also the mother may be mortified with the child, behavior toward the father, who has so many months or years had been forward to being waited at home by his children.

In case the mother has foreseen the normal-to-be-expected ways of the children, she may find the stage so as to make it easier for the father. Accordingly, she will have explained to the children beforehand what the father will expect, though the youngster, five may not be much impressed. At least the plan that no play-mates will be present during the last few hours after coming home. Seven or eight have completed the term-age to play to be home all of the first evening. If she is skilled the experience should not be coming to any of the children.

Insight and Skill

Yet she hardly can hope to effect such a program for succeeding days. Through her own insight and skill, she will help to see that the children have to gain comprehension with him gradually and never rushing to him with him and do things with him and only when he is ready to be with him.

He will learn to enjoy each child's friends and the things each child does and wishes to talk about. At best he hardly can hope that the children will talk about him and vie for his affection—and if they have enjoyed normal development and have learned to get on well with other children.

For more often than not, the returning father will believe that children have not been disciplined strictly enough that they don't see well not help enough at home. Often he will be right in his judgment, though sometimes very wrong in his procedure. His great temptation may be an officer. The mother in the presence of the child for her being too lax with them and she in turn to come to such defense and instead of growing more strict herself to grow even more lax. Both parents would be wiser were they soon to have several private conferences attempting to iron out these differences and covered on a solid front.

The mother can hope to win the father to more mildness if she will agree to suffer up. While one should not expect the mother to make all the adjustments on the father's return, she is in the more strategic position to effect adaptations with good effect.

Mothers of young children whose fathers may not return for a year or more should try especially hard in the meanwhile to discipline their children well. Most fathers in the service have a strong desire that their children during their absence shall be well disciplined. From home control of the growing child is not only hazardous to the happiness of the restored family but also to the child's own mental health, character and citizenship.

Destroyer-Transport Dickerson Sunk In Pacific Area April 2

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(INS)—The gallant destroyer-transport Dickerson rested today on the bottom of the Pacific in the Ryukyus but only after terrific pounding and a stiff battle against attacking Japanese planes.

The Dickerson was attacked off Okinawa on April 2 and the Navy disclosed today that the warship later was sunk by American naval guns because she was beyond salvage.

The ship was steaming 15 miles west of Okinawa when she was attacked by three two-engine Jap fighters.

One of the planes came in to drop bombs from overhead while another roared in from astern, crashed the number one stack and exploded into the forward guns. The bridge was destroyed and serious fires spread, accompanied by loud explosions.

The skipper, Lt. Comdr. Ralph Lounsbury, of Seattle, Wash., and the executive officer, Lt. Alexander McEwen, Duluth, Minn., were among the 46 men and five officers lost in the engagement. The vessel carried approximately 150 officers and men, of which 15 were wounded.

MEDIA, Pa., July 11.—(INS)—Mrs. Anna Duffley, 44, of Aston township, near Media, was held without bail today in connection with the death of her two-and-a-half-year-old granddaughter, Sandra Lee McCann.

An autopsy of Sandra's body showed she died of a cerebral hemorrhage and a broken neck. County Detective Fred Jack reported.

NEW YORK, July 11.—(INS)—Striking members of the Newspaper and Mail Deliveries Union today defied a War Labor board's order to return to work.

As the 8 a. m. deadline set by the board passed, union officials reiterated earlier statements that the men would not go back until a contract is signed. They refused to confirm a report that a union meeting had been called for this forenoon.

Temporary Gas Strike Settlement Is Announced

(BULLETIN)
CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 11.—(INS)—Temporary settlement of a strike of about 1,200 natural gas workers was announced today following a three-hour session between 10 representatives and management of the United Fuel Gas Company.

William R. Wonssettler, international representative of the union, said he had issued an immediate back-to-work order to all employees of the strike which, for a time, threatened to hamper war production in sections of four states.

Wonssettler announced the order was issued following assurance from the War Labor Board that there would be no discrimination against the strikers in the settlement of their grievances over wage demands and night shift differentials.

He emphasized, however, that his order was of a temporary nature pending favorable action by the War Labor Board.

Normal production was expected to resume tonight, he added.

Nubbins Observes Fourth Birthday

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 11.—(INS)—Nubbins, celebrated his fourth birthday today—a day his parents never thought the youngster would live to see.

Nubbins is Forrest Hoffman, for whom the nation prayed last November when his Christmas was moved ahead in the fear that he wouldn't live until the real Christmas.

But an operation saved Nubbins' life and he has been improving slowly ever since.

Outwardly there wasn't much of a celebration for Nubbins. But the joy of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Hoffman at having their son alive and improving was evident.

Nubbins received one of his most prized birthday presents some time ago because he begged so hard for it. His father gave him a cowboy suit complete with boots and six-shooter.

Bill Farnsworth Called By Death

Former New York Sports Writer, Later With Mike Jacobs, Staff, Dies

NEW YORK, July 11.—(INS)—Wilton Simpson (Bill) Farnsworth, 50, former sports editor of the New York Journal-American, died Tuesday in St. Clare's hospital after a long illness.

Farnsworth was a notable figure in the New York sports world thru several generations dating back to Rectors and the era of John the Barber. For 23 years he served as sports editor of two Hearst newspapers in New York.

Death resulted from the effects of a cerebral hemorrhage. He was stricken last Nov. 10 at Madison Square Garden while attending a boxing match he helped arrange in his capacity of vice president of the 20th Century Sporting Club. He had retired from newspaper work in 1937 to accept a post as chief of staff for Boxing Promoter Mike Jacobs.

Beaver Falls Club Plans Horse Show In Wampum, Aug. 9-10

Pleasant Valley farm in Wampum will be the scene of a second large event this summer when the Beaver Falls Kiwanis club sponsors a horse show on August 9 and 10, according to H. W. Marshall, owner of the farm.

This Beaver county show was held last year at the Davis stock farm on the Darlington-Beaver Falls road. Since the Kiwanis club is providing its own show manager, Mr. Marshall will be able to show his own horses in the August show. He served as manager for the Wampum Rotary club horse show held on his farm on June 26.

Opening on the evening of Thursday, Aug. 9, the show will continue through the afternoon and evening of August 10. Because of the large number of classes, even more local horses than usual are expected to be entered in the exhibit.

Results of the Wampum horse show, which was held for the benefit of Deshon Annex, have not yet been announced by the treasurer of the Wampum Rotary club, Mr. Marshall said, but the proceeds are expected to be large.

Brenda—Will You Step Out With Me Tonight?

I know I've been a awful grouchy not taking you any place lately. But after standing all day at my new job, my feet damn near killed me with callouses and burning. Now I've reformed—rather my feet have—never tried anything that seemed to draw the pain and fire right out so fast—and the way it helps soften callouses is a body's hottest. Been able to get some extra overtime money—so what do you say, let's go dancing tonight. You can sleep on my bed—just tell all you want.

Canteen Workers Face Handicaps

Have No Allowances For Butter Or Sugar In Serving Wounded On Trains Here

RECENT EFFORT IS RECOUNTED

Censorship being what it is we have no idea of telling you what day it happened, which direction the patients were going, that railroad they were using or their destination. We would like to tell you what happens in the American Red Cross when wounded veterans go through and what the women do to assist.

Recently a call came in to the Red Cross that a carload of wounded men would be at one of the railroad stations late at night and the canteen service would be appreciated.

Hurry the Sandwiches
Immediately the canteen service of the Red Cross swung into action. Bread was purchased, meat purchased and the business of making sandwiches and coffee started in the Red Cross house. The food-stuff was loaded into the station wagon and not too far from midnight the women drove to the station and boarding the hospital car, served the wounded men who were not too long from the battle front. Along with the sandwiches and coffee they took three cartons of cigarettes.

This is just one instance of what the canteen service does. In this particular instance a situation arose that would be amusing if it were not for the tragic implications. As the sandwich making started one volunteer asked "where's the butter?"

"We have no butter, so we're using mayonnaise," was the reply.

No Sugar Either

As the coffee was done the volunteer again stuck her neck out and said "what about sugar?" To which the reply came, "We have no sugar unless one of the women uses a pound of her own."

No butter, no sugar for a snack for a group of men back from living in foxholes.

"Why?" was asked.

"We can't get points for butter and sugar for such purposes," was the answer.

It isn't the fault of the Red Cross women who are doing a fine job and want to do a better one.

Apparently it isn't the fault of the local ration boards for they have no authority to issue points for such purposes.

But somewhere along the line leading to Chester Bowles, there must be some way of getting butter for sandwiches for wounded men and sugar for their coffee. After all they are not that scarce.

Davenport Tells Lions Club About Johnson Bronze

Importance Of Local Industry In City's Welfare Related By Maintenance Superintendent

Just how important a niche the Johnson Bronze Company fills in New Castle industrial world was related by Edward Davenport, maintenance superintendent of the local concern, which operates plants here and in New Jersey and Tennessee.

The local plant, which bears the reputation of being the largest sleeve bearing plant in the world, has risen from a small concern, once known as the American Car and Ship Hardware Co., until through the enterprise of P. J. Flaherty, president of the company it has grown to an industry known throughout the world, wherever bearings are used.

It has kept pace with its growth by constant development of new ideas in its line of endeavor, producing a self-oiling bearing and many other new ideas.

Mr. Davenport stated that the plant has never closed down and kept operating when many other industries were at a low ebb during the depression.

The final report on bond sales, shows that Rashid's team sold a total of $76,018.75 and Ward's team, $34,518.75 worth of bonds during the recent campaign. These were all in E. bonds, but in addition, they sold $84,000 worth of corporation bonds, which did not count in the campaign.

Carl Anderson was top salesman with $18,375 worth, followed by Frank Webster with $10,487.50. Earl Wimer sold $35,000 worth of corporation bonds, and Francis Sowersby sold $32,000 worth of corporation bonds.

The losing team captained by Charles Ward was a penalty was assessed fifty cents each, which will purchase one $25 bond in the name of the club.

Guests included First Sgt. W. L. Glenn, who is stationed at the Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, from whence he has recently come home on a convalescent furlough. He was injured while stationed in India with a B-29 base. Claude M. Jenkins, industrial engineer for the Standard Steel Spring Company, was admitted as a new member.

Local Man Helps Turn Youth Camp Into Air Field

(Special To The News)
VOGELSANG, Germany—Where Hitler's youth once swam, exercised, studied and were drilled in Nazi doctrine, Yank engineers of the 16th Engineers Aviation Battalion built a landing field for U. S. Army planes which helped in the final crack-up of the state the Nazi youth were trained to serve.

Technical Sgt. Otto F. Parkkonen, R. D. 6, New Castle, Pa., was one of the men who took over the section, the underground swimming pool, the gymnasium and the banquet hall of the camp for the U. S. Army air strip. Sgt. Parkkonen and his men had the job of welding prefabricated steel planking for landing strips where the land was too muddy or could not be graded and surfaced for an air strip.

By this time the outfit may be on its way to the Pacific to continue its work of building air strips wherever necessary, out of whatever material happens to be on hand.

Lieut. Dahlgren Will Get Medal

Congressional Medal Winner Arrives In New York By Plane En Route To Washington

NEW YORK, July 11.—(INS)—One of the outstanding heroes of the European war, Lieut. Edward C. Dahlgren, returned to New York Tuesday by ATC plane en route to Washington to receive the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Lieut. Dahlgren was recommended for the highest military honor of the nation for his single-handed extermination of three German machine-gun emplacements in Oberhoffen February 11, 1945. During the action Dahlgren, armed with a sub-machine gun and hand grenades, killed 17 Nazis, captured 39 and assumed an unbridled number of others.

Lieut. Dahlgren, a native of Canton, Me., entered the Army as a private and was wounded in the Tunisian campaign. He was awarded the Bronze Star for rescuing a number of men trapped in a house in the Vosges mountains. He took part in the invasion of southern France and was awarded the Silver Star for his fighting near Temenick, France, after being wounded a second time.

A clepsidra was an ancient instrument for measuring time by the outflow of water through a small orifice. It is said to have been introduced into Rome in 139 B. C.

GIVE THEM A FIGHTING CHANCE TO GROW UP STRONG

With Boyd's Homogenized MILK

VITAMIN D

Growing children particularly need Vitamin D for developing strong bones and teeth. Vitamin D helps the body to make best use of calcium and phosphorus, minerals needed for sound bone structures. Doctors say if all children got 400 U. S. P. units of Vitamin D every day, in addition to the daily amounts of milk recommended for them, rickets—a childhood disease sometimes associated with deformed bone structures—would become comparatively rare.
